The mission at the Y-12 Plant has a place in the history of this nation. Not only did this mission help bring an end to World War 11, but also helps us maintain the freedom we enjoy today. The security of this nation cannot be maintained without a nuclear weapons complex that assures that the weapons we have in the stockpile remain reliable and are state of the art technology wise.

A new modernized Y-12 will be up to meeting the challenges of the next century. Safety and health will be the utmost concerns of the Y-12 of the future. New technology and doing work smarter will not only make the work we do safer for our workers but also will help achieve the goals we have for the next generation.
